Art and soul

Art moves us to think deeply and invites us to engage the world as Christ taught. Whether art becomes your life's work or serves as a tool for self-expression, a Northwestern art degree will give you a strong foundation in art's practice, history and theory, as well as expand your critical thinking skills.

Explore + discover

Study in urban centers like Chicago and Denver, or venture abroad to experience another country's art and culture. Recent students have studied art, history and philosophy at the University of Oxford; taken fashion courses in Italy; and analyzed theatre productions on London's West End.

Where you'll create

The Korver Visual Arts Center is fully equipped to help you experiment with new mediums, expand your portfolio, and present your work in a professional gallery setting. You'll have access to studios, including:

- ✓ Ceramics room with 17 wheels and 4 kilns
- ✓ Drawing studio with 17 drafting tables
- ✓ Mac lab set up with Adobe Suite
- ✓ Painting studio for oil, acrylic and watercolors
- ✓ Darkroom for processing film photography
- ✓ Sculpture lab with professional-grade power tools
- ✓ Printmaking studio with 4 presses

Artists + profs

Northwestern's art faculty have exhibited work at Seattle's Hush Gallery and CICA Museum in South Korea.

First-class artwork

NWC student artists have won design competitions and been accepted into prestigious art exhibitions.

Up to 6 annual shows

Te Paske Gallery hosts three showings of professional artwork and up to three student showings each year.
